REMARKABLE

Career Has Been That Of Judge Donahue

At One Time A Miner, Now Supreme Judge

The career of Judge Maurice H. Donahue of New Lexington, one of the two new Democratic judges-elect, who will go on the supreme court bench on the first day of next January, should be an inspiration for every young man whose pathway to success is beset with apparently unsurmountable obstacles.

Judge Donahue, who, during the course of his term, will become chief justice of Ohio's highest judicial tribunal, as a lad worked on the farm, in stone quarries and in coal mines, and educated himself by studying far into the night after each day's toil was done.

His father died two months before he was born, and his widowed mother, feeling poverty for the first time, was obliged to struggle with five small children to provide for. The two eldest children came to Columbus and attended high school and then became teachers and this led the others to strive for a sufficient education to enable them to become teachers, and in time each succeeded.

The family lived on a farm in Monroe township, Perry county, where Judge Donahue was born. He worked on the farm first, then secured work in stone quarries and then entered the mines. The last mine he worked in was Mine No. 13, at Corning. He obtained a little education by attending the village school and by studying at nights he qualified himself for a teacher's certificate, which he obtained and began teaching at 16. At 19 he was superintendent of the Corning schools.

He started his career in the legal profession when but 21, when he was admitted to the bar. He was twice elected prosecuting attorney and he filled this office with such credit that his admirers boomed him for circuit judge, to which office he was elected when he was 35 years old, taking his seat when a year older.

He has made a fine record as circuit judge and attorneys who know him well predict that his work on the supreme bench will be equally creditable.

Judge Donahue was not only one of the youngest circuit judges ever elected in Ohio, but he is also one of the youngest ever chosen for the position of judge of the supreme court. He was born May 10, 1864, and is but 46 years years old. His four Republican associates on the supreme bench will each average about 70.

Judge Donahue is a stockily and powerfully built man, of medium height. He has a strong, broad, ruddy face, expressive and keen eyes, and his hair is streaked with gray. He wears glasses and hard work does not seem to have impaired his health, because his physical condition seems to be fine. But burning the midnight oil has turned the hair gray and has given him some trouble with his eyes, but aside from that has not hurt him so as to be noticed.

Judge Donahue and Miss Martina Johnson, daughter of the late J. J. Johnson, who was president of the Perry County Bank, were married in 1889, and they have one daughter, Miss Zelta, aged 15 years.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c, at G. R. Baker, or F. Fink of Fredericktown.

KENYON

Has Hope Of Defeating State This Year

Gambier, Ohio, Nov. 16—None the worse from their hard battle with Case, the Kenyon team received a much needed rest Monday afternoon. The Case game showed that the Episcopal team has a versatile attack and also a strong defense. In Saturday's game Kenyon held Case again and again and it was only Case's weight together with the condition of the field, that finally brought victory to the brown and white.

Twitchell, Roby and Heller had no terrors for the Kenyon line, although Roby did not manage to make a touchdown from the kickoff.

The kick was a short one and nearly all of the Kenyon team overran the man. Outside of this one play Kenyon gained as much ground as her opponents. Case outgeneraled Kenyon in the kicking department, for although Axtell's punts were long, they were not so well placed as Roby's.

The Cleveland papers failed to note that in five plays in the last quarter, Kenyon carried the ball from the middle of the field up to Case's one-yard line. Kenyon's men still have hope of defeating State.
